Cutting and attaching the grass mat

To ensure that your small scenery fits perfectly into the glass bell, start by preparing the base. To do this, place the hood of the glass bell on the back of the grass mat. Outline the hood with a pencil. This will give you an exact circle. Then cut the circle out of the grass mat, but slightly smaller than the drawn line. This will ensure that the grass mat will later fit in well from the inside.

Create a miniature world under the glass bell

Glue the matching circle from the grass mat to the bottom of the glass bell.

Now place the miniature tree in the middle of the grass mat and fix it in place with hot glue so that it stands firmly and stably under the glass cover.

Pluck small flowers from the gypsophila and stick them onto the grass mat. This creates a small mini flower meadow.

Finally, it's time to put the glass bell back together again. Carefully place the hood over the designed landscape and make sure that everything fits perfectly. Fix the glass bell in place with a little hot glue. Your miniature world is now just waiting to be admired!

Finally, it's time to put the glass bell back together again. Carefully place the canopy over the designed landscape and make sure that everything fits perfectly. Fix the glass bell in place with a little hot glue. Your miniature world is now just waiting to be admired!
